

City of Baraboo Housing Affordability Report

December 2020

Introduction

The following Housing Affordability and New Housing Fee Reports are provided to satisfy the requirements of Wisconsin Statute 66.10013 by reporting the data for the City of Baraboo's new housing development and associated permitting fees. A look at the data in relation to the Sauk County 2018 Housing Study offers an opportunity to reflect on how Baraboo strives to meet the growing demand for housing.

Housing affordability report

The city of Baraboo had a total of zero new subdivision plats, certified survey maps, and condominium plats in the year 2020. The number of new building permit applications for one- and two- family dwellings was eight (8). There were six single-family and two, two-family dwellings, making a total of ten (10) new dwelling units.

The city of Baraboo has 294 undeveloped parcels that are zoned for residential development as of January 1, 2021. These parcels are listed in List 1 and shown on Map 1.

Chapters 14, 17 and 18 of the City of Baraboo Codebook (<https://www.cityofbaraboo.com/?SEC=B55D3911-B63F-490B-8C70-9A48B705260F>) outline the municipality's residential regulations such as land use controls, site improvement requirements, fee, land dedication requirements, and permit procedures.

Building a new home in Baraboo incurred an average of $4,704.50 per unit in permitting and impact fees in the year 2020.

Promoting Development

The Wisconsin Department of Administration Demographic Services Center (DSC) publishes data and forecasts pertaining to municipal populations within the state. According to the 2013 Report (https://doa.wi.gov/Pages/LocalGovtsGrants/Population_Projections.aspx) the number of households in Baraboo was 5,161 in 2010, and was projected to be 5,730 in the year 2020. The forecasted growth rate was 57 households per year. Accordingly, the ten new residential units built in 2020 falls short of meeting the current demand.

The Sauk County Development Corporation's 2018 "Housing Study and Needs Assessment," also reports findings of a housing shortage in Baraboo and throughout Sauk County. Highlighted contributing factors to the shortfall include: compounded pressure from the housing shortage experienced in the Lake Delton/Dells area, pressure from additional commuters since the highway expanded to four lanes, competition with Madison for building contractors, and an influx in the Hispanic population.

The study identified ways in which the municipality could modify construction and development regulations to help the community meet the housing demand. The study proposed providing greater zoning flexibility to allow for more multifamily and apartment development within existing zoning districts. It was suggested that a study be conducted to explore the use of current commercial districts for multifamily development and amend the Zoning Code to these districts as appropriate. The City could also consider amending the Zoning Code to create a mixed-use zoning category that includes residential.

The Housing Study and Needs Assessment called for implementing strategies to reduce the time and cost necessary to approve and develop new residential subdivisions in the municipality by 20 percent. Suggestions included developing off-site and on-site improvements such as extending water, sewer and other utility mains, and roads to and/or throughout eligible development areas. Additional site-preparation assistance could potentially be to provide a preliminary site analysis (PSA) for single-family subdivision sites and target attached housing sites. The city could also take steps to market vacant land for infill.

According to Sauk County Development Corporation's 2018 Housing Study and Needs Assessment, "The permitting process in Baraboo is streamlined and can be done within three months...a quicker turnaround time than most communities." That statement suggests that the permitting process is not a hindrance to housing development in Baraboo.

New housing fee report

The following data shows the city of Baraboo's residential development fees related to residential construction, remodeling and development.

Fees administered by the City for the construction of new one- and two-family dwellings are shown in Table 1. A comprehensive list of the City's Official Fee Schedule, including applicable fees for earlier stages of residential development like zoning and platting, can be found on the city's official website (https://www.cityofbaraboo.com/vertical/Sites/%7BD06131C5-F452-44C7-954E-97BD998BCA20%7D/uploads/CHAPTER_01_APPENDIX_-Official_Fee_Schedule_4-6-2020.pdf).

In 2020 the city collected $47,045.03 in building permit fees for new residential construction (including early start and impact fees). This averages to $4,704.50 per new dwelling unit. The total amount of money collected in 2020 by the city of Baraboo for residential alterations and remodels (including fences, sheds and garage work) was $25,465.60. The total amount of permit fees all residential construction is $72,510.63, $35,418 of which consists of impact fees.
